

BENDER, GUILTY, GETS 4 DAYS TO ASK NEW TRIAL

Verdicts returned by juries in Adams county court late Monday afternoon in cases in which drunken driving was charged brought acquittal for one defendant and conviction for the other.

Joseph E. Bender, Emmitsburg, was found guilty of drunken driving by a jury which had deliberated seven minutes, on testimony produced by state's witnesses. There was no defense testimony, but immediately after the verdict was read E. V. Bulleit, Esq., counsel for Bender asked for permission to file a motion for a new trial and an arrest of judgment. Judge W. C. Sheely allowed Bulleit four days in which to file reasons for the new trial. The move will probably prevent Bender from being called for sentence here on Saturday.

The story of Bender's arrest on Carlisle street for drunken driving was re-counted by Captain T. N. Boate, Lieutenant John Kime and Officer D. Harris of the state motor police, while Dr. R. W. Gifford said that his examination of Bender on the afternoon of the arrest showed that the defendant was under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The court refused to allow Bulleit to question witnesses concerning details of the status of the first charge against Bender at the time of his arrest on the second charge based on the same offense.

Two Previous Rulings

The court had ruled twice previously in the matter. Last week Judge Sheely had refused to release Bender from bail and Monday refused a motion to quash the indictment against Bender. After the testimony was completed Monday the court refused to direct a verdict in the defendant's favor.

The only defense witness called to the stand was Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore, before whom the charge against Bender had been filed. After Bulleit had started his offer of what he expected to prove by that witness, the district attorney entered objections which were sustained by the court and Basehore left the stand without being asked any questions. Bulleit then rested his case and waived his right to address the jury.

The fact that a stenographic record was made of the trial was taken by some to indicate that Bulleit may appeal to a higher court should Judge Sheely refuse to grant a new trial.

Hanoverian Is Acquitted

The jury in the Bender case included the following: Mrs. Anna Basehore, Gettysburg; Oliver Hesson, Germany township; L. A. Burdard, East Berlin; R. M. Wolfe, New Oxford; Howard Diehl, Hamilton township; John A. Baker, Liberty township; Mrs. Miriam Kee-fauver, Gettysburg; Daniel S. Mickley, Franklin township; Paul S. Reaver, Freedom township; Stanley B. Stover, Littlestown; Charles W. Weaver, Benderville, and A. E. Ebbert, Biglerville.

At 4:50 o'clock, after nearly two hours of deliberation, a verdict of not guilty was returned by a jury in the case of Allen Theodore Messinger, 39, 436 South Franklin street, Hanover, on a charge of operating a car while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Messinger had been charged by Officer J. P. Monaghan of the Gettysburg subdivision of the state motor police.

Messinger must pay the costs of the case.

Commonwealth's witnesses had said that Messinger's car had nearly struck curbing as it rounded the center square in Abbottstown early on the morning of April 24 and that Messinger had walked unsteadily at Cross Keys when first accosted by the officer. A New Oxford physician found the man was under the influence of liquor.

Admits Having 3 "Drinks"

Defense witnesses called by J. Francis Yake Jr., Esq., contradicted the state's testimony in part; claimed Messinger's car had no difficulty in negotiating the Abbottstown square and attributed the unsteadiness in Messinger's gait to the effects of the rays of the officer's flashlight turned suddenly into the driver's eyes at the time of his arrest. Messinger admitted having had three "drinks" between 9 and 12 o'clock on the night of his arrest. Companions said he was not under the influence of liquor.

The jury that acquitted Messinger follows: William Appleby, Gettysburg; Charles E. Trostle, Mt. Joy township; H. M. Gardner, Latimore township; Stewart Walker, Oxford township; Mervin Freed, Franklin township; Mark Stock, Mt. Pleasant township; C. A. Cashman, East Berlin; Clarence M. King, Mt. Joy township; Harry E. Bumbaugh, Gettysburg; Charles Spence, Hamilton township; Oliver Wehler, Hamilton township, and John W. Klunk, McSherrystown.

3 COUNTRIES FREE HUNGARY FROM WAR PACT

Budapest, Aug. 23 (AP)—Hungarian official sources said today the Little Entente nations—Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia—had agreed to grant Hungary military equality.

This decision was reached by foreign ministers of the three nations meeting with Hungarian diplomats at Bled, Yugoslavia.

It calls for revision of the Trianon treaty, removing arms restrictions placed upon Hungary at the end of the World war.

Identical communiques will be issued in Budapest and Belgrade later today stating that other points of difference will be negotiated on a bilateral basis between Hungary and the Little Entente states individually.

These negotiations were expected to result in non-aggression pacts and increased protection for minority groups.

Yugoslav sources said Germany, now trying to extend her influence into southeastern Europe, was annoyed at Italy's alleged efforts to gain supremacy in the Danube basin.

Petrescu Comnen, Rumania's foreign minister, was reported due in Rome in the near future to conclude a friendship accord with Italy similar to the five-year treaty signed by Italy and Yugoslavia last October.

Hitler Woos Hungarians

The action of the Little Entente came while the Hungarian regent, Admiral Nicholas Horthy, and other high Hungarian officials were on a visit of state to Germany.

Official Nazi utterances and the German press have given every indication that Chancellor Adolf Hitler is seeking to convince Hungary it would be to her advantage to have Germany as one of her best friends.

The Trianon treaty, to be revised as a result of today's agreement, was signed by the allied and associated powers and Hungary on June 4, 1920. Although it recognized Hungary's complete independence from Austria, the pact long has been a sore spot because it limited Hungary's army to 35,000.

The treaty reduced Hungary's population from 10,500,000 to 7,500,000 by ceding territory to Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia. This created minority problems which still have to be settled.

ROTARY OFFICER IS COMING HERE

E. A. Meyer, Biglerville, president of the club, presided during the program and announced that the clubs of Chambersburg, Shippenburg and Gettysburg would meet in a joint outing at Caledonia park on Thursday.

It also was announced that Walter Kirkman, Baltimore, district governor for Rotary, will attend the club's meeting next Monday evening in the Y. W. C. A. building, center square. Kirkman will discuss the Rotary plans for the coming year, with special interest toward planning the district conference that will be held here next spring.

HELD FOR SAWING AN ANTIQUE DOOR

Antique nails and hinges on an antique door allegedly stolen from a 100-year-old house at the edge of Abbottstown were the subject about which a hearing before Justice of the Peace John C. Sheeler centered Monday evening when Charles H. Walker, Abbottstown, was arraigned for larceny of the door.

Justice Sheeler held Walker for November court under $300 bail after it had developed at the hearing that Walker had sawed up the door which was valued at $15 by the owner and had been used for a counter in his nearby service station. Walker thought it was "just another door," he explained.

The charge was laid by E. A. Krug, Hanover, owner of the property. Both Walker and Krug were represented by attorneys.

'QUAKE SHAKES PHILADELPHIA

Barcelona, Aug. 23 (AP)—Earth tremors were added today to the troubles of war-torn Spain.

The Barcelona observatory at 2 a. m. (8 p. m. Monday, E.S.T.) registered a quake whose center was believed to be off the Catalan coast. Houses shook at Gerona, 52 miles northeast of here. No casualties or serious damage were reported.

Philadelphia, Aug. 23 (AP)—A series of slight earth tremors vibrated across a large section of eastern Pennsylvania and central New Jersey Monday night and early today, rattling windows and dishes and arousing hundreds of persons from slumber.

No serious damage was reported. Franklin Institute seismographers, after a study of their instruments, placed the center of the earthquakes in the Atlantic ocean about 140 miles east of Philadelphia.

Five tremors, beginning about an hour before midnight and ending at 2 a. m. (E.S.T.), shook southeastern Pennsylvania. It was the first quake in three years and the 22d on record in this area.

The first quake in New Jersey was recorded at Fordham university at 10:45 p. m. (E.S.T.) Monday night. Father Joseph Lynch, Fordham "quake expert, described the first tremor as a "slight surface shock."

The area affected apparently extended from Philadelphia to Trenton, New Jersey, on the north, Wilmington, Delaware, on the south, and Lakewood and Toms River, New Jersey, on the east.

In Philadelphia residents described the tremors of varying intensity, accompanied by a rumbling sound similar to that created by a heavy truck. Dishes rattled, milk bottles tumbled from back porches, and in some sections windows were reported broken.

Many at first thought a terrific explosion had occurred in the industrial region around Allentown, Reading, Wilkes-Barre or Scranton. Newspaper offices were flooded with telephone calls.

The single ring ceremony will be performed by the Rev. A. P. Frantz, superintendent at the orphanage and father of the bridegroom. A half-hour organ recital by Professor Walter DePfrontaine, Norristown, will precede the ceremony. The bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" by Wagner will be used as the bridal party approaches the altar. During the ceremony the organist will play softly "Liszt's "Liebestrom." The triumphal march from Verdi's "Aida" will be used as the recessional.

The bride will be given in marriage by her brother, Samuel H. Higinbotham, New Oxford, and is to be attended by her sister, Mrs. George A. Clark, of New Oxford, as matron of honor. The bride's gown will be of white chiffon with black accessories. She will carry white lilies. Her attendant will be dressed in aqua chiffon. Her accessories also will be in black. She will carry a bouquet of mixed flowers.

The chapel has been decorated with roses and other cut flowers and with palms and ferns. The formal dedication of the chapel will take place on Thursday.

The bridegroom will have the Rev. Willard A. Kratz, Catasqua, Pa., as his best man. They were classmates at Ursinus college. The ushers will be Robert L. Leppo, Hanover, and Frank H. Higinbotham, New Oxford, a brother of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony there will be a public reception in the vestibule of the chapel and a private reception for the immediate families, close friends and members of the wedding party will follow. After the reception the couple will leave for an unannounced destination on their wedding trip. They will reside at 336 Baltimore street.

The bride attended the schools of Charles Town, West Virginia, and for the last several years has served as assistant matron on the orphanage staff.

Mr. Frantz is a graduate of the former Gettysburg academy and attended Ursinus college for two years after which he graduated from Gettysburg college in 1928. He later took graduate work at Gettysburg college and at Columbia university, New York. He has taught in the public schools of Adams county for 12 years—three years in Union township and for the last nine years he has headed the orphanage school.

Miss Helen Louise Breitweiser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Breitweiser, Westminster, and Homer Roger Sell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling L. Sell, near Littlestown, were married Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Trinity Lutheran church, Selingsgrove, by the Rev. D. S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Littlestown.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder, Littlestown. The single ring ceremony was performed.

The bride wore a gown of turquoise blue lace, with a large white picture hat and white accessories. The matron of honor wore a rust colored dress with white accessories. After the ceremony the wedding party was entertained at the home of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Kammerer, who are spending the summer at Selingsgrove.

The couple will reside at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

SPEEDS OF 68, 70 BRING TWO FINES

An Illinois driver traveling at 68 miles an hour on the Lincoln highway east of here this morning was passed by a New Yorker and both landed before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore on speeding charges brought by a member of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police. The speeding cars had passed the officer several miles east of the point where the arrests were made.

Both drivers pleaded guilty and were fined $10 and costs. Dorothy Sowntay, Joliet, Illinois, paid her fine for traveling at 68 miles an hour, but Andrew Lembo, New York city, who was charged with traveling 70 miles an hour, went to jail until a telegram sent home by a companion brings the money necessary to secure his release.

Monday a charge was filed before Justice of the Peace Joseph Kane, Franklin township, against Daniel Piper, Chambersburg, accusing him of speeding at 45 miles an hour with a truck, the legal limit for which was 30 miles an hour. Because he sped along the Lincoln highway towing a house trailer at a speed of 55 miles an hour while the limit for trailers is 35 miles an hour, George Van Ripper, Mount View, New Jersey, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Gerald Orndorff, Oxford township, where he paid a fine of $10 and costs.

J. O. Tanner, Clay, West Virginia, paid Justice C. S. Straley, New Oxford, $10 and costs for driving a truck not equipped with a muffler. The arrest was made Monday at midnight.

H. M. Dates, Greensburg, was arrested in Greene township, Franklin county, Monday by a Gettysburg officer and fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace R. C. Boyles for speeding at 62 miles an hour.

TRESPASSER SENTENCED

John Cochrane, Baltimore, was sentenced to five days in the Adams county jail on a charge of trespassing on Western Maryland railroad property by riding on a freight train without paying fare. The charge was made before Justice of the Peace John C. Sheeler who passed sentence this morning.

JURY GETS CASE AGAINST DRIVER IN COLLISION

The case of a Hanoverian who was arrested for drunken driving as the result of an automobile accident the evening of March 7 between East Berlin and Abbottstown in which four persons were injured went to a jury for decision about 2 o'clock this afternoon in Adams county court here. The defendant is Joseph C. Macavoy, Hanover, whose trial was postponed at the April session of court.

The arrest was made by Officer Glen F. Henry, who accused Macavoy of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor after his investigation of the accident in which the other driver, Harry Whitman, Lemoyne, and three other occupants of his car, were injured. Whitman testified this morning that the machines had approached from opposite directions when Macavoy's car suddenly crossed the center line of the highway and struck his car on the left side near the front.

The jury hearing the case follows: John A. Baker, Liberty township; Elizabeth M. Elcholtz, New Oxford; Edward Diehl, Hamilton township; R. M. Wolfe, New Oxford; D. S. Mickley, Franklin township; Stewart Walker, Oxford township; Stanley B. Stover, Littlestown; Alton Wolford, Straban township; Oliver Hesson, Germany township; Mervin Freed, Franklin township; Harry Gilbert, Gettysburg, and Charles Spence, Hamilton township.

With the completion of the Macavoy case the court was expected to return to the trial of the charges against Fern D. and Herman L. Hull, Mt. Pleasant township brothers, who are being prosecuted on two larceny counts by Officer Joseph F. Bushey of the state motor police. The youths are charged with the theft of harness worth $25 from J. Willis Snyder and chickens valued at $14 from Emory Sauble, both of Mt. Pleasant township.

The Hull cases had been called for trial when court convened this morning but the absence of several witnesses made it necessary to postpone the trial until this afternoon while subpoenas were issued for the missing witnesses with instructions that the papers be served at once.

It was stated this morning at the court house by District Attorney John P. Butt that the case of Milton Plank, Baltimore street, in which he is charged by Fred Tawney, Gettysburg, with assault and battery, is to be tried at this session—probably on Wednesday morning.

On Saturday the Plank case had been listed by error on the district attorney's records with other defendants who have entered pleas of guilty or nolle contendere. No plea has been signed by Plank, the district attorney said this morning. Only the postponement of the Hull cases this morning prevented the Plank case from coming to trial early this afternoon.

The following jury is hearing the larceny charges against Fern and Herman Hull: H. Bender Miller, New Oxford; Mrs. Bess Plank, Butler township; Edith Strausbaugh, Mt. Pleasant township; Roy Hartlaub, Mt. Pleasant township; John S. Null, Cumberland township; Oliver J. Waybright, Freedom township; P. J. Horick, Huntington township; C. A. Cashman, East Berlin; Paul S. Reaver, Freedom township; Harry E. Bumbaugh, Gettysburg, and H. M. Gardner, Latimore township.

Truck and Car Collide Near Dillsburg, Monday

About $100 damage resulted when a truck operated by John Ingrassia, 31, Baltimore, and a car driven by Clarence M. Smith, 17, Dillsburg, R. D., collided two miles north of Dillsburg on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg highway about 10:15 o'clock (E.S.T.) Monday evening. Officer R. C. Lightner, of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police, investigated and stated that he expects to file an information against Smith charging him with a violation of the motor code.

Ingrassia was driving north and Smith in the opposite direction on a straight stretch of highway when the Smith car is reported to have veered to the left and forced the truck to the berm. The left fronts of the two vehicles collided. Damage to the truck was placed at about $25, while the loss of Smith's car was estimated at $75.

No one was injured.

EDWARD SMITH, NATIVE OF TOWN, HEADS PA. ELKS

Edward D. Smith, of Lewistown, was elected president of the Pennsylvania Elks State association at the 32nd annual round-up of the lodge in New Castle today.

He was chosen for the office by delegates from 119 lodges in Pennsylvania and succeeds Grover C. Shoemaker, of Bloomsburg.

More than 100 new members were received into the lodge at the convention that opened on Monday. The new members were inducted by Grand Exalted Ruler Edwin J. McCormick, of Toledo, Ohio.

Among the visitors at the opening session were three past grand exalted rulers and John K. Tener, a former governor of Pennsylvania.

A ball will be held in Shoemaker's honor this evening.

Smith, leading Lewistown men's furnishing store merchant, is a native of Gettysburg and is well known here. His father conducted a wholesale liquor store on Baltimore street 40 years ago, selling the business to John Kimple, Chambersburg street, before moving from Gettysburg to Lewistown.

Herbert L. Grimm, of Gettysburg, a state Elks association vice president and deputy grand exalted ruler of the national organization, nominated Smith for the presidency. He said: "Gettysburg is famous for three outstanding events in history—as the scene of the decisive battle of the Civil war; as the place where President Lincoln made his immortal address 'Four score and seven years ago'; and as the birthplace of Eddie Smith."

Many Elks of the Gettysburg lodge and their wives are attending the annual convention in New Castle this week. The local lodge had built a replica of the Eternal Light Peace Memorial which is expected to win a prize for the lodge in the New Castle parade, Thursday. Its erection was supervised by Harry Guiden, of the firm of Foth and Guiden, Aspers. The float was taken to New Castle today with a Pennsylvania motor police escort.

Adams county commissioners opened sealed bids for the winter's supply of coal at the county court house, county home and county jail at their weekly session this morning at the court house. Because of "legal technicalities" concerning the bids, the contract could not be awarded until they have consulted Edgar K. Markley, Esq., solicitor for the county institutional board, the commissioners said.

The matter of making special arrangements for the registration of Adams county electors which has been under consideration for several weeks has not yet been decided upon, Winfield G. Horner, clerk to the commissioners, said at noon.

GENERAL STRIKE THREATENED BY FRENCH WORKERS

Paris, Aug. 23 (AP)—French labor leaders rallied their forces today to fight the Daladier government for retention of the 40-hour week, and labor circles foresaw the possibility of a general strike.

The general confederation of labor which lists 5,000,000 members and most other unions ordered their members to be ready for action.

Foremost in the offensive were waterfront unions, fighting government efforts to force Marseille stevedores to unload perishables during the week-end and thereby exceed their 40-hour work period.

The federation of port workers' unions said "grave decisions" would be made soon unless extra pay for overtime was granted the Marseille members, and labor circles said this was a threat of a strike in all French ports.

The situation evolved from Premier Daladier's proposal Sunday night to increase working periods to speed national defense and industrial output because of the uncertain international situation.

The socialist minister of public works and the socialist minister of labor resigned but quickly were replaced by Anatole de Monzie and Charles Pomaret, also socialists.

This did not ease opposition to Daladier's plan, however, socialist and communist sources said. They asserted there was dissatisfaction even among the premier's own radical socialist party, centrally placed between the liberal left and the conservative right.

P. O. S. of A. Members to Re-Affirm Americanism

Reading, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP)—Members of the Patriotic Order Sons of America opened their annual state convention today and began at once consideration of what secretary Charles B. Helms, of Philadelphia, termed "powerful resolutions to reaffirm their Americanism."

Delegates will vote on a dozen resolutions, including one urging an "open" investigation of campaign charges against Governor Earle and 13 associates and another demanding that John L. Lewis' C.I.O. "rid" itself of communists.

"The convention will be a sort of a memorial to our forefathers," Helms said. "No autocracy, no socialism or no monarchy is wanted in America. We want a country of law and order and constituted authority."

A tour of the Berkshire knitting mills and the placing of a wreath on the grave of Dr. Bodo Otto, Revolutionary army surgeon, were included on the first day's program. The veterans association banquet will be followed by a ball.

Four candidates seek the state president's post in the election to be held on the closing day of the convention. They are Lewis A. Gaul, Berks county; Carl A. Nelhoff, Carbon county; L. K. Honeyell, Luzerne county and C. R. Regan, Union county.

100,000 Enter Parade Of V.F.W. in Columbus

Columbus, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—Already having assumed a carnival atmosphere, Columbus and its approximately 35,000 visitors turned out today for the city's biggest show of the year—the military parade of the 39th annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Encampment officials estimated that nearly 100,000 persons would pass the reviewing stand. More than 100 bands and drum corps will participate.

Speaking at a reception and dinner for national officers and distinguished guests Monday night, Sen. Key Pittman (D-Nev.), chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, praised the foreign policy of the Roosevelt administration and opposed immediate amendment of the Constitution to put the choice between peace and war up to the vote of the people.

Stock Report

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Buying in motors inspired a quiet rally in today's stock market.

The list got off to a poor start, with the ticker tape notably idle. Volume expanded somewhat, though, as prices improved. Gains of fractions to a point were well distributed near the noon hour, although numerous issues were unchanged and small losers were in evidence here and there.

Selected steels, rails, rubbers, building materials and specialties generally edged higher.

Among the better performers were General Motors, Chrysler, Yellow Truck, United States Steel, Bethlehem, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Certain-Teed, DuPont, Union Carbide, American Telephone and Western Union.

ITALY STARTS CENSUS OF JEWS

Rome, Aug. 23 (AP)—Italy started her special census of Jews today. Questionnaires more than a yard long were distributed to all Jews and "suspected Jews" with the admonition that there would be severe penalties for those evading the census or giving false information.

Since the count included all Jews in Italy as of midnight Monday night, foreign Jewish tourists, including Americans, were among those given questionnaires.

In Rome, police distributed blanks to hotel porters and apartment house janitors with lists of "suspected Jews" in each place.

"Suspected Jews" were compelled to state whether the suspicion they were Jews was erroneous.

Information asked included names, ages, addresses of all members of the family, parentage, profession, citizenship, religion, date of arrival in Italy and war service.

Families having even a single Jewish member were included. The census was taken on the basis of race rather than religion.

The questionnaires contained no questions on money or property holdings. This re-assured many Jews who had expected such questions and had feared the information might eventually lead to loss of some of their property.

112 New York Girls Under 16 Wed in Year

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—One hundred and twelve child brides—all under 16 years of age—were dismissed from New York city schools during the last year, a report disclosed today.

Harold G. Campbell, superintendent of schools, said one girl was 12 years old, four were 13, twenty-seven were 14 and 80 were 15. He said 334 pupils—only two of them boys—who married at 16 also had been dismissed.

DEATHS

Mrs. William B. Nair
Catharine Elizabeth Nair, wife of William B. Nair, died Monday morning, at Devitt's Camp, near Watsonstown, where she had been a patient since January, previously having lived in Florida for some years. Mrs. Nair was the elder daughter of Harry C. and Grace Young Nair, and was born in Hanover, thirty-nine years ago. Her maternal grandparents were William J. and Catherine Eichelberger Young, and her paternal grandparents, Mahlon H. and Mary Elizabeth Long Nair, of Hanover.

She was a graduate of the Hanover high school and of the nurses' training school of the church home and infirmary, Baltimore. Thirteen years ago she was married to Mr. Nair, a native of Clifton Forge, Virginia.

Besides her husband and parents, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Richard W. Livingston, New Oxford, and two brothers, Richard Young Nair, Virginia Beach, Virginia, and William Young Nair, Hanover.

The Rev. Dr. N. B. S. Thomas, pastor of the church, was the officiating minister. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

The pallbearers were George H. Dutta, E. G. White, John Sterner, Jacob King, Charles Shultz and Andrew Martin.

NAVY WILL TEST LARGE FLYING BOAT ON COAST

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 23 (AP)—A giant flying boat, estimated capable of a 5,000-mile flight to patrol or bomb, was ready for tests today by the United States navy after manufacturers had flown the $1,000,000 craft to their own satisfaction.

Rigid inspection and test flights for the next week lay ahead of the four-motored "air dreadnaught" before the navy accepts it as perhaps the most powerful unit of the naval air force.

Specifications of the plane, which resembles the trans-Pacific clipper ships, are closely guarded naval secrets, and officials of Consolidated Aircraft corporation, which built the air giant, refused to elaborate on Monday's test flights.

Executives said they were more than satisfied with the way the plane performed for test pilot William C. Wheatley in flights over the city, but beyond that they would not comment.

Today, Lieutenant Commander Arthur L. Crinkley expects to pilot the plane, which has sleeping accommodations for a crew of eight but reportedly will carry 16 on duty flights.

The plane was designed to supplant the present twin-motored P.B.Y. type bombers, many of which have been flown more than 2,500 miles from here to Hawaii, and in excess of 3,000 miles to Coco Solo, Canal Zone.

Observers trained in aviation made the following unofficial estimates concerning the ship's specifications: Engines, 1,050 horsepower each; wingspread, 115 feet; overall length, 80 feet; height, on beach landing gear, 22 feet; top speed, 240 miles an hour; weight, 30 tons, range 5,000 miles.

Clipper planes now in the trans-Pacific flying service have the following corresponding specifications: Four engines of 800 horsepower each; wingspread, 130 feet; overall length, 89½ feet, height, 24 feet; top speed, 179 miles an hour; weight, 26 tons; range, 3,000 miles.

HINES LINKED WITH SCHULTZ

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—George Weinberg, 36, ex-convict and once business manager of the multi-million dollar Dutch Schultz "policy empire," testified in Supreme court today that Tammany district leader James J. Hines promised "protection" from police raids on Harlem policy banks.

Weinberg previously had testified that Schultz demanded 60 per cent of the profits of the multi-million dollar policy racket to take care of his mob "and Jimmy Hines."

Again bringing in the name of the veteran political leader, whom he had previously accused of accepting $500 a week as "fixer" for the Schultz gang, Weinberg said that in March, 1932, Schultz told him to "lay off" a policy bank operated by Ed and Elmer Maloney until Jimmy Hines gets back from Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Weinberg repeated his testimony that Hines was paid $500 weekly by the Schultz mob.

"I myself paid Jimmy Hines $500 in front of Hines' home," he said. Weinberg said that thereafter he saw Hines weekly and paid him $500 each time.

Weinberg had been recalled to the stand by Dewey in an attempt to prove a direct link between Hines and the Schultz syndicate.

Calls N. Y. College Communist 'Hotbed'

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Congressional investigators heard testimony today that Brooklyn college, New York, "might quite fairly be labeled a hotbed of propaganda" and communist activity.

Professor Edward I. Fenlon of the college's department of philosophy made the assertion in testimony before the house committee investigating un-American activities. The committee opened a study of communism in education preparatory to closing its public sessions here.

The witness added that in his opinion there was widespread communist activity in many other colleges and universities.

Professor Fenlon said professors and students were "deluged" with communist propaganda which at times littered stairways and sidewalks in places "perhaps a half inch thick."

He added that "the teachers union," a C.I.O. affiliate active at Brooklyn college, was in his opinion "communist controlled" and "communist dictated" although many members were ignorant of its true purpose. The union was, he asserted, "unquestionably a pressure group."

Chairman Dies (D-Texas) announced that public hearings would be recessed after today's session. He said sub-committees would work in New York, on the west coast and in the midwest.

OUTLINES HIS SOUTH PENN. R. R.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23 (AP)—Inter-state commerce commission examiner John S. Prichard studied today W.P.A. worker Roy Greene's plan for a $30,000,000 electric railroad under the Alleghenies to replace a $60,000,000 all-weather toll highway project.

Greene, grey-haired and clad in tieless shirt and faded corduroy trousers, appeared before Prichard and skeptical railroad attorneys Monday to outline his plans for building the railroad with funds he seeks from the Reconstruction Finance corporation of the P.W.A.

The correspondence school electrical engineer asked the commerce commission to grant him right-of-way over the highway for which funds already have been allotted by the Works Progress administration.

He told attorneys for the Pennsylvania, Western Maryland, Baltimore and Ohio and Reading railroads and representatives of the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission and the state Public Utilities commission that the proposed highway could not and would not be built.

He explained to Prichard that his plan envisioned three streamline passenger trains of three cars each, and three freight trains, one for pickup service and two for through traffic. His railroad would follow the route of the South Penn. railroad. He said he could complete nine tunnels started about 50 years ago for about $1,000,000 each and could lay track for $60,000 a mile.

"The advantages of this system are so outstanding," Greene told an attorney who asked the cost of operating a 110-mile-an-hour locomotive, "that I didn't consider it necessary to go into small details."

Chiropodists Study Question: How High Should a Heel Be?

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23 (AP)—The national association of chiropodists formally opens its 27th annual convention today to take up, among other things, the question "how high should a heel be?"

The men, and women, who doctor the nation's feet think they can find the answer, but admit their findings probably won't take a fraction of an inch from the support of a fashionable woman's foot.

The delegates will take up, too, foot exercises, the effect of sore feet on the automobile driver and on the army and navy.

Dr. Charles E. Krause, of Philadelphia, elected president of the association Monday night, will discuss auto drivers. He said:

"Feet play a more important part in driving than do the hands. People with sore and hurting feet are too heavy on the gas and too light on the brakes."

Refuting the old adage that the army travels on its stomach, Doctor Harry L. Goldwag, a vice president, offers the suggestion that the army, after all, travels on its feet.

He is the author of a congressional bill that would provide a chiropody corps for the United States army and navy.

Dr. Joseph Lelyveld, of Rockland, Massachusetts, estimated the foot carrying the average person a mile "endures a stress of 250 tons."

That's why Dr. Cecil P. Beach, of Cleveland, advises girls to "buy stockings long enough so that there is additional material beyond the toes" and shoes that fit "regardless of size."

Relief Clients Receive 4,922,270 Lbs. of Food

Harrisburg, Aug. 23 (AP)—The federal government was green grocer for 126,984 families on state relief rolls during July, distributing more than 4,922,270 pounds of foodstuffs free through the Department of Public Assistance.

Arthur W. Howe, Jr., secretary of Public Assistance, said more than 1,000,000 pounds of fresh mixed green vegetables and 1,310,000 pounds of new Irish potatoes, purchased from local farmers, were included in the market baskets.

He estimated the total value of the free foodstuffs at $235,615, and said it cost about 16 cents a family for the state relief administration to distribute them.

Other fresh farm products, purchased in the state, included 114,656 pounds of cabbages, 53,926 pounds of peaches, 245,315 pounds of fresh beets and 301,081 pounds of fresh tomatoes.

INJURIES HIT BALL TEAMS IN PENNANT CHASE

(By the Associated Press)

One explanation of why these hot August days are called the "dog days" might be that baseball players' dogs—feet to the uninitiated—begin to give out then.

Pitchers who have been winning regularly begin to blow up, batters experience sudden slumps and injuries strike more frequently.

More than one pennant contender has suffered from these ill effects already.

The New York Giants, with Carl Hubbell in the hospital, Lou Chiozza retired, and Bob Seeds unable to play, and the Chicago Cubs, who lost Manager Gabby Hartnett and have had various other stars on the shelf, have been the hardest hit.

Even the Yanks haven't escaped entirely. Red Rolfe, Myril Hoag and Bill Dickey have suffered bruises during the past few days. Pittsburgh hasn't reported any serious injuries, but has shown plenty of signs of weariness lately.

The Bucs had one good spurt left, however, and big Jim Tobin had plenty of "stuff" in his pitching as Pittsburgh knocked off Chicago 4-2 Monday in their last game before opening a home stand against the east.

The defeat dropped Chicago back into fourth place as the Cincinnati Reds hit hard, as usual, behind Paul Derringer and walloped the St. Louis Cardinals 11-4. Derringer earned his 17th victory.

Cleveland's Bobby Feller, trying a new pitching style, seemed to have recovered his old effectiveness for seven innings, giving only six hits and fanning eight. But the eighth gave Chicago's White Sox three runs and a 4-2 victory. As a result the Tribe started east 1½ games ahead of the Yanks and only one behind of Boston.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Those must be crocodile tears Elmer Layden is shedding—the kind Sam Breadon wept when he sold Dizzy Dean to the Cubs. . . Elmer has 100 footballers reporting September 10. . . Five days later another hundred odd will show up. . . Still he moans so loud you can hear him from here. . . (They must grow 'em on as out there, at that). . . Joe Magglio doesn't own a slice of Jim Braddock's restaurant, as some of the chroniclers chronicled—the reason he spends so much time there is because the grub is on the cuff. . .

Cornell is looking for a new basketball coach and Vic Hanson, ex-grid professor at Syracuse, and one of the great court stars of all time, is said to be candidate No. 1. . . Joe Savoldi, once a great fullback at Notre Dame and later one of those dime-a-dozen wrestling champs, has bought a farm near Niles, Michigan.

Ray Wolf, North Carolina's smart coach, thinks the open type of football and the five-man line will be more in vogue in football this season. . . A Harlem hot spot has a ringside table reservation for Joe Louis for as long as he lives and it doesn't cost Joe a dime. . . Look for the training table, in modified form, to reappear in big ten football camps this fall. . .

What is the real dope on Burgess Whitehead, anyway? . . . The boy still is on the Giant ailing list, but he managed to clout two homers for his Lewiston, (North Carolina) team the other day. . . Glenn Cunningham, the well-known amateur Miller, seems to be doing all right if it is true that he paid an income tax on $34,000 last year.

If Henry Armstrong ever gets around to fighting Ceferino Garcia the bout probably will go to the coast where it will draw more potatoes. . . Charlie Gehringer, known as the silent man of the American league, once won a high school oratorical contest. . . Red Rolfe, Yank third sacker, takes to the air Wednesday night to size up the American league pennant race. . . He can give 'em the dope in two words: "We're in!" . . . Yanks plan to take some fancy stitches in their drive to sew up the flag this week. . . Five doubleheaders in five days. . . Coach Arthur Fletcher said: "We may have a little trouble, but I bet the Sox and Indians run out of pitchers before we do." . . . As for yours truly, we're packing up and moving into the Yankee stadium.

PEPPERMINT SALADS

Plain white peppermint candies add a refreshing flavor to fruit salads or appetizers. Add several to the fruit mixture while it is chilling. The peppermints will dissolve and quickly flavor the combination.

PRELUDE TO STUFFING

Stuffed peppers are often improved in flavor if they are first par-boiled for five minutes in water to cover. Add a fourth of a teaspoon of soda to each quart of water. Rinse the peppers in cold water, then drain them and they'll be ready to stuff.

LOOKING AROUND

SCHEDULING Albright to replace St. John's on the Gettysburg college football schedule for 1938 will probably mean a few more wrinkles and gray hairs for Coach Henry T. Bream. Albright has rated as one of the best of the small college teams in the country for the last several years and last year was one of the few undefeated teams in the land. Gone will be the sensational Dick Riffle who has been signed to play professional ball with the Philadelphia Eagles, but the Lions still retain enough veteran material to give their opponents plenty of opposition.

By signing Albright to a two-year contract the Bullets will face a nine-game layout in 1939, the first time in several seasons the locals have played more than eight tilts. As is true of this year's schedule, the 1939 layout will be without a single "breather." The 1939 schedule follows:

September 30—Bucknell, home.
October 7—Albright, away.
October 14—Drexel, home.
October 21—Richmond, away.
October 28—Lafayette, away.
November 4—Muhlenberg, home.
November 11—F. & M., away.
November 18—Ursinus, home.
November 30—Dickinson, away.

CHAMBERSBURG high school football candidates will report to receive equipment Wednesday afternoon. Thursday and Friday will be spent in preliminary drills after which Coach "Snapper" Rines will choose a squad of 38 for a week's training period at Camp Ritchie, Maryland. Rins has only seven or eight varsity and first-string substitutes remaining from last year and faces a stiff task of moulding a team to match the power of his elevens in the last few years.

The Gettysburg college basketball team has been definitely signed to meet the University of Pennsylvania dribblers at Philadelphia next January 25.

ACCORDING to provisions in the Adams county baseball league last spring the first four teams in the league standing will participate in playoffs for the league title. The first and third place teams will play and the second and fourth place teams will clash with the highest standing team in the circuit being the home team in the first game. This will bring Cashtown and Midway together at Midway, Saturday, while Littlestown and Bendersville will play at Bendersville. Both games will start at 2:30 o'clock (E. S. T.).

A semi-pro football team has been organized in Chambersburg and included on its roster are three gridders well-known to local fans. "Bull" Stoner and Graig Caldwell, former Gettysburg college stars, and "Reds" Hartman, of Cashtown, a former high school athlete, will perform for the Franklin countians.

HORSE "PARKED WRONG"

Washington, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP).—Farmer C. Chadwick posed a problem today for Washington's police department. An officer gave him a red ticket for parking his horse "against traffic" on the wrong side of a street. Chadwick refused to pay a $1 fine, declaring, "my horse is not a motor vehicle and can't violate the motor code."

BICYCLING "FEVER"

Ambridge, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP).—It begins to appear that it will require school bells to end Ambridge's bicycle riding marathon epidemic. A team that broke the record of 346 hours last week wheeled on past the 470-hour mark today, with three other teams pursuing, but far behind.

FOOTE FAVORS LOWER RATE FOR AUTO INSURANCE

Harrisburg, Aug. 23 (AP).—Motor Police Commissioner P. W. Foote said today he was seeking a state-wide reduction in automobile insurance rates from the national board of insurance underwriters to save as much as $30,000,000 a year for Pennsylvania motorists.

He based his appeal on the fact that Pennsylvania has cut the motor death rate 42 per cent during 1938, and expects to cut it in half by the end of the year.

The commissioner said he probably would make an informal visit to the insurance board in New York Wednesday, and expected to make a formal application for a reduction in insurance rates for state motorists by September 1.

Foote pointed out that the national safety council estimated damage to loss of life and property in automobile accidents in the state in 1937 at $60,000,000.

"In 1938, it should not amount to more than $30,000,000," the commissioner estimated.

"A large part of these losses are borne by the insurance companies. It is only logical that they should give recognition, that the people of Pennsylvania may profit by the careful driving habits they have now developed."

MAVERICK MAY TRY 'WRITE IN' SENATE DRIVE

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP).—Capital politicians were discussing today the question of whether democratic chairman James A. Farley would aid independent races for re-election by Senator James Pope, of Idaho and Rep. Maury Maverick, of Texas.

Pope and Maverick, full-fledged Roosevelt backers, suffered narrow defeats in democratic primaries. Farley immediately afterward gave the winners the usual pledges of organization assistance in the fall campaign, and since then has made no comment.

Some of the President's lieutenants, however, have urged the two legislators to run as independents. Both men have conferred with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park during the last few days. Pope said afterward he would not reach a decision until he returns to Idaho.

Friends of Maverick were unsuccessful Monday in getting the Texas secretary of state to place his name on the ballot as an independent candidate. Maverick said here he approved his associates' action and indicated he felt assured of administrative support if he can run against Paul Kilday, the democratic nominee.

The petition of the Maverick forces was rejected by Edward Clark, Texas secretary of state, on the ground that Maverick, having entered the democratic primary,

had forfeited the right to run as an independent.

Although he declined direct comment, Maverick made it plain that he intended to fight this decision, possibly through court action. Friends said that if the court upholds Clark's ruling, Maverick may conduct a "write in" campaign.

THE MENED BOAT

NOW that the Puddle Muddlers were together again they did not think of all they had been through. Sweet Face, the bears and Top Notch had clung as closely as they could to the water's edge as they had walked back while the ducks, Christopher Columbus Crow, Rip and Willy Nilly were in the boat.

"It was all my fault," said Willy Nilly. "I should have tested the boat properly. I make as many mistakes as any one. In fact I make huge and enormous mistakes when I make them."

"Don't worry about that," cawed
Christopher Columbus Crow. "It makes us all feel better to think that any one of us may make a mistake at any time."

"It makes you feel better, certainly," cackled Top Notch.

They all smiled at each other,
for while they were teasing and talking, each knew of the danger their beloved little Willy Nilly had been through—and not only Willy Nilly but the ducks and Christopher and Rip.

It was still very dark. As they were huddled together the bears
and Sweet Face and Top Notch told how they had walked along the shore waiting for the boat.

"That is why you were waiting for us!" said Willy Nilly. "In spite of the fog you stayed close by."

"In spite of any fog we would stay close by," bleated Sweet Face,
and the little man knew it to be true.

Now the dawn was coming up over the sea. The air was clear and fresh. There was no longer any fog, any danger. Willy Nilly set to work to repair the boat.

MINOR COLLISION IN SQUARE AT HANOVER

A car driven by Charles J. Eis-erman, and owned by John W. Henry, both of Hanover, and an automobile owned by L. R. Schoelkopf, Gettysburg, figured in a collision
early Sunday evening on Baltimore street, near center square, in Hanover. The car driven by Eiserman struck the rear of Schoelkopf's car
when the latter decreased his speed when nearing the square. Both cars were traveling north on Baltimore street. The windshield in the Henry car was shattered when Curtis Frock, 21 George street, struck his head against the glass due to the impact of the collision. The Henry car was considerably damaged but little damage was done to the Schoelkopf car.

THE BRAVE POOR

IN CONTRAST to the idea that it is unfortunate to have been born poor, or to live poor most of one's life, there are compensations that the rich and the more fortunate never come to know.

Dr. Samuel Johnson, who was born poor, often argued on the advantages that poverty brought. And Oliver Goldsmith was harassed most of his life by people to whom he owed money. But what a benefactor to all literature! Millet, the great French painter, was so poor that he often traded masterpieces in order to get bread for himself and family.

I have never met happier people than those who have been very poor.
Not that they are inadequately provided for, but that they show such courage and fortitude in the face of this fact. There is less complaining among the poor than among those who have more than they deserve.

Take the shut-ins, and those in hospitals. No braver and more cheerful people live than they. They have learned that greatest of all lessons —the lesson of acceptance.

George Gissing wrote most of his long line of English novels while hungry. But no one would suspect this by reading his beautiful "Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft." And those who knew him best never heard him complain.

What would this world be without its brave poor? The farmer who toils—and then loses his crop, through no fault of his, or the fisherman who has to contend with modern modes of gathering quantities of fish against hard-earned meager catches. Or the small store man against the highly capitalized string of stores. They have reason to become discouraged and disheartened—but they bravely fight on.

We, who have beauty all about us, and with sufficient to keep our bodies well nourished, why should we complain in the face of the many who give so much of themselves—just to live?

Each of us needs something of that brave spirit which keeps the brave poor smiling and uncomplaining while something keeps tugging at their heart and at their hope.

Chapter 14

Shattering Experience

EARLY the next morning I was awakened by a tapping on the pane. I rolled out of bed and, as I turned to the window, saw a face staring at me through the green-wreathed opening.

"Jean-Francois!" I said, startled, and then, with rising irritation:
"And what the devil do you mean
by spoiling the best night's sleep
I've had in weeks?"

Jean-Francois slipped noiselessly into the room. He was a sorry sight, wan and disheveled. By the look of him, he hadn't seen a bed
that night.

"Monsieur," he said, "I am desolated to disarrange you, but I have had a nerve-shattering experience."

"Go on," I said encouragingly.

He shuddered slightly, as at a painful memory, and began his story. He had tried, he said, throughout the day to get a line on Geiss's household and way of life,
but beyond the fact that his staff
consisted of a man and wife, a surly couple who kept themselves to themselves, he had found out nothing.
And then suddenly chance favored him.

"I stood," he said, "on the corner of the rue de Dragon, waiting for an inspiration, when suddenly the gate of the villa opened and a man and woman came out. I followed!"

He had followed the couple to a small cafe in the fisher quarter, entering it on their heels. Jean-Francois found a strategic table half-way between them and the door and sat down to study them
behind the cover of a newspaper.
It was then that he received a shock, for he knew their faces.

There had been, he said, a peculiarly scandalous police court case in Marseilles ten years before,
in which a man and his wife had been accused of baby-farming on a large scale. Jean-Francois, despite his tender years, had followed the case, in all its ghoulish details, with intense eagerness. The baby-farming had been proved, the neglect of the infants, resulting in many deaths; but the murder of a certain number, though suspected, could not be substantiated, and the couple received sentences of five years apiece.

It was not unnatural that Jean-Francois, finding himself opposite them in the cafe, should experience excitement, not unmixed with a shuddering apprehension. "For, you will understand, monsieur," he explained naively, "that they were not nice people."

"I can quite imagine it," I answered gravely.

He made an expressive grimace.
"Ah," said he, "but I was not dismayed. I waited my chance to scrape acquaintance!"

It came in a minute, with the loan of a newspaper and the offer of a drink. Polite exchange of compliments showed that the couple,
though willing enough to be treated as long as their new acquaintance's cash held out, were chary of letting information slip; but the cognac, though it did not loosen their tongues, appreciably mellowed their tempers, and when Jean-Francois suggested the purchase of a couple of bottles and the adjournment of the sitting to their abode, they agreed readily enough, admitting that their patron was away for the night and they were free agents.

The sitting lasted until the small hours of the morning, and by that time his hosts were comfortably slumbering in their chairs. Jean-Francois took credit himself that by dint of spinning out his drinks,
he was still in very fair condition,

but he was filled at the same time
with an immense disgust, for, beyond the news that there was a certain room into which they were never permitted to enter under pain of instant dismissal, he had learned nothing. It appeared to Jean-Francois that two good bottles of cognac
had gone completely and irrevocably down the drain.

A Tour Of Inspection
And then a bright idea struck him. As his hosts were out of action for a considerable period,
it was, he thought, a Heaven-sent opportunity to have a look at the rest of the house, and forthwith
he set off on a tour of inspection.

It was a largish place, richly furnished, with two great salons,
a dining-room, and a big, bare studio. But there was another door at the end of a short passage whose lock defied his amateur efforts at cracksmanship, and he felt, suddenly and unshakably, that here was the hidden room into which the servants might not enter, and that inside it lay the secret of the house.

A prospecting tour round the outside showed him a one-storied oblong, windowless but roofed with a glass dome, that he knew must be the locked room, and a tour round the upper story disclosed a small closet through whose window
an agile man might climb and drop onto the lead parapet. It needed only an instant for him to put the thought into execution. There was a skylight in the dome, partly open,
and he squeezed through it, dropping, bruised but triumphant, on the floor beneath.

He found himself, he said, in the strangest room he had ever seen.
The outside was an oblong, but the chamber within was hexagonal.
There was a black pile carpet on the floor, and the walls were hung with black velvet curtains. In the center of the room was something like a prie-dieu, also in black, with a small, sable-covered table before it, and opposite the door, behind a longer, narrow table also draped in black, was a dais, with the statue of a goat in white marble.

He had searched the room, he continued, and found nothing else
of interest—no papers, no indication of the purpose for which it was used—and on that conclusion
he began to think of making a retreat. It was then that he realized that there were certain difficulties
to be overcome, for it was one thing to drop from the dome and quite another to climb up to it again.

He sat down to think matters out.
There was nothing to be done, it seemed, but to wait until such time
as Geiss or his unpleasant retainers
should open the door of the room,
and the thought of what would happen after that caused a gentle sweat
to break out on his body.

He sat there perhaps for one hour,
perhaps two; he had no watch, and the minutes dragged by on leaden feet—when suddenly there came an interruption. He heard a faint scratching at the door of the room and realized that someone was in-serting a key in the lock. He had barely time to dart behind a curtain when the door opened and someone entered the room. He heard footsteps moving to and fro, a muffled thumping, and on that,
plucking up his courage, he drew
the curtain aside and peered around it.

Escape
A dim figure stood before the prie-dieu, engaged in shaking out and replacing the cushions that covered it, and as his eyes focused themselves, he saw that it was a woman. She wore a sort of overall, and her head was tied up in a checked duster, but her face he could not see. It was evident, however, from her actions, that she had come to clean the room.

Finally he saw her turn and pass out through the door, which, to his unspeakable relief, she left ajar. In a flash he was across the room, peering down the corridor, but though he could hear her footsteps crossing the hall, there was no other sound of life. Holding his breath, for he knew he had no time to lose, he crept along the passage and found himself in the empty hall.

The front door was opposite him,
and with a dart he was beside it,
had turned the well-oiled handle,
and was sprinting down the glass-roofed path. In another instant he found himself in the golden light of sunrise, standing alone in the deserted road.

He was tired, he was hungry,
and his nerve was not a little shaken, but insatiable curiosity had him in its grip. If, he reasoned, it was true that the malodorous couple were the only servants in the house, then this woman, whoever she was, would leave the house, once her strange task was done, and he wanted to see where she went.

It must have been a quarter of an hour that he waited, but finally there came the click of the gate and he saw her emerge. The print overall had gone, and she wore in its place a faded cotton dress, topped with a short, blue flannel coat. She might, he thought, have been anything between thirty-five and fifty. But what startled him most was the realization—and this he was emphatic about—that she was an Englishwoman.

She made off down the street,
and he followed, using all the precaution he could; but he need not have bothered, for she never turned her head.

He stuck to the trail nobly, until he saw her insert a gigantic key
into the lock of an imposing gateway, cross a gravel sweep, and vanish
round the angle of a large house.

"And the building—what was it?"
I demanded.

He spread out his hands apologetically. "Monsieur, what an anti-climax? It was only a private hotel—the Chateau la Vague. I regret much," he added, looking like a small boy whose sum has come out wrong,
"that I could do no better."

It took me a full minute to assimilate this surprising information.
"Son," I said at last, patting him on the shoulder, "you've done better than you know. Here are your marching orders. Go back to your grandmother and have a good day's sleep. When you've rested, see what you can discover about an American gentleman by the name of Dunning, who says he's a correspondent for the Chicago Express. Find out where he's staying, what he's doing, and whom he's meeting. You can report to me tonight."

Had Your VITAMINS Today?

Yes you have—unless you have been fasting. Vitamins lurk in all that we eat; in much that we drink.

But whether you've had sufficient vitamins is quite another matter—
a matter that only your Doctor can determine. For Doctors have found that many persons—nursing mothers and growing children, especially —need more vitamins than the regular diet supplies. In such cases they will often prescribe certain of the newer food concentrates.

If you—or a member of your family—is lacking in energy and vitality—consult a capable doctor —and bring his prescription to this Reliable drug store to be filled.

FOUR CONVICTS
ARE FOUND DEAD
IN PHILA. PRISON

Philadelphia, Aug. 23 (AP).—Four investigations were started today
into the mysterious circumstances surrounding the deaths of four hunger-striking convicts at the Philadelphia county prison who, a coroner's physician said, apparently scalded to death.

State Secretary of Welfare Charles
I. Engard sent two special investigators to the institution at Holmesburg with orders to "get to the bottom" of the hunger strike which resulted in the four being placed in punishment cells where their bodies were found Monday.

They were among more than 600
prisoners who had refused to eat
in protest against a "monotonous"
diet of hamburger and spaghetti.
Discovery of the bodies came after a night during which, Warden William B. Mills said, some 20 convicts in the punishment cells had been fighting among themselves.

Dr. Morton Crane, the coroner's physician, declared the men had died violently.

"I am of the opinion that scald-ing water somehow got into their cells," he said. "All four exhibited

Baltimore

Cattle receipts at the Baltimore Union Stock Yards were estimated as the largest of the season, the salable supply placed at 1,575 head. Estimates for calves called for 450, hogs 1,000 and sheep 1,225.

CATTLE—Although seaward movement commenced earlier in the trading period yesterday than just recently, although trading in general was still classed as slow, and there was still a weak tendency on most classes represented. Outlet for steers was quoted unevenly steady to 25c lower than last Thursday and heifers proved extremely dull sale at 25a50c, lower rates. Cow stuff held along steady lines and bulls sold steady to a shade higher than close last week. But of sale of medium and good grades of grass steers was made within a price spread of $8.50a9.35, a few loads of 25c higher, $9.50a10 and top of $10.35 paid for two loads of 1,440-pound plain lightweights offerings sold downward to $7 and occasionally below. Most slaughter heifers were plain and medium grades that sold from $6a7.50, a load of good 500-pound average at $7.75 and old small lots reaching $8.25. Good weights beef cows reached $6.50 sparingly, bulk of fat cows, plain and medium grades, that went at $5.25a6. Low cutter and cutter grades of cows released at $3.50a5, emaciated kinds down to $3. Plain and medium bulls brought $10a10.50 and up to $10.75 was paid sparingly. Plain and medium grades brought $7.50a9.50, and light culls dropped as low as $6.

HOGS—Steady prices prevailed in the local hog market and on that basis the good and choice barrows and gilts weighing from 160-200 pounds were scheduled at $9.20a9.40, practical top represented by the latter price. Majority of 210-240 pounds cased at $8a9; 250-300 pounds medium, 140-160-pound light lights, $8.60a8.85; 120-140-pound slaughter pigs $8a8.50; good medium-weight and heavy packing sows mostly $6.25a6.75; best lightweights selling up to $7.10. Steers were again quoted from $5.75 down. Hogs from doubtful areas and those fattened on garbage or swill and price premiums occasionally paid for through-billed consignments purchased for shipment are not represented in the above quotations.

SHEEP—Trading in spring lambs was mostly on a 25c higher basis than late last week, and the top was up 50c. Good and choice grades of spring lambs sorted ewes and wethers went mostly at $9.25a9.75.

PIGS IN PIGS

Rochester, Pa.—Blood will tell—even in a pig—decided Squire William D. Brown. Michael Lombardi, accused of stealing two pigs from Armstead Slaughter, said he bought them from farmer Robert Allman. Allman confirmed the sale. So Squire Brown ordered veterinarian McKean Boyce to make blood tests and report Friday if the pigs are from Slaughter's brood sow.

"SWORDS INTO PLOWSHARES"

Chicago—Guns used in prohibition gang wars are being made into plaques for public heroes. Coroner Frank J. Walsh had 600 of them melted and cast into mementoes. One was a sub-machine gun used to kill Earl (Hymie) Weiss in front of a cathedral in 1926. The first plaque will be awarded to Lige Debowski, a chief who was wounded five times in a duel with two robbers last year.

All of these The Chambersburg Business College endeavors to give its students.
